FRANKLINTON CHRISTIAN COLLEGE

Franklinton, N. C.

Location

Christian College, a Christian Institution is beautifully located in a grove, part of a tract of land running along the Seaboard Air Line Railroad, twenty-eight miles North of Raleigh, and one mile north of the corporate limits of Franklinton, North Carolina. Federal route number one, which separates the railroad from the campus, adds greatly to the attractiveness of the grounds and gives tourists an opportunity to get a panorama of this tract of land consisting of eighty-two and three-fourths acres.

Franklinton Christian College had its origin in the formation of a public school in the Franklinton Christian Church in 1879, with H. E. Long as teacher. It had the support and cooperation of many of the workers of the Southern Christian Convention and received aid from the public school fund.

There was such a deep interest in education manifested by the colored people until it became necessary to increase the capacity of the school and employ other teachers.

Dr. J. P. Watson, then mission secretary, made an appeal for assistance through the Herald of Gospel Liberty and many of the Northern friends responded. The colored people were able at this time, through special effort, to purchase the land, then valued at three hundred dollars ($300.00) on which Northern friends furnished money for the main building, now known as the administration building and boys dormitory. This building was erected in 1880 and the school was formally opened in the new building January 1st, 1882, under the name of Franklinton Literary and Theological Institute. In 1886 the institution was placed under the care of the American Christian Convention, and a Board of Control was elected to foster its interest and direct its work. In 1891 a charter was obtained from the State of North Carolina and the name of the school was changed to Franklinton Christian College.

A second building "The Hermitage" or teachers home, was erected by North Carolina Christian Conference (Colored). The history of the school has been one of progress. The most marked development of Franklinton Christian College, has been its spiritual growth. From the foundation of the institution, the Bible has been the leading text book. Its aim is to assist the students in acquiring high morals and high intellectual standards. Those who have graduated from the College rank well as teachers, doctors, ministers of the gospel, editors and managers of large business interests. While the College has a commendable history of the past, its future is full of promise; its course of study has been raised, more departments of work have been added, and it is the aim of the Board of Control, and the faculty to keep the work of Franklinton Christian College abreast with all the institutions of like grade.

WORK OF VARIOUS MISSIONARY SOCIETIES

It is the purpose of this article to recognize the cooperation that the President has received from the various Women's organizations, not only in this State, but in Virginia, and throughout the North. It has been by the work of such organizations, that our Mission room has been kept open, and from which we have made valuable sales, thus increasing our local receipts greatly. Too much honor could not be given at this time for the noble work of the white women and the women of our race who have proven themselves to be our sincere friends in the work here in Franklinton.

Space in this catalogue will not permit a lengthy statement concerning the work of our women, but we are desirous of expressing our deep feeling of gratitude for the very splendid manner in which the school has been remembered by our never tiring women. The men have worked well, but this word of praise is submitted in an expression of confidence for our women in their various forms of society organizations. The white women of the North are to receive special mention for the many boxes of clothing, and fine material for the New Building.

MATHEMATICS

There are at least three principal aims in this department, (1) To prepare the student to apply Mathematics to every day problems. (2) To develop accuracy and power of mathematical reasoning. (3) It furnishes a foundation for higher mathematics.

HISTORY

This course furnishes the student the knowledge of Ancient, Mediæval and Modern times. The life of the Negro as reflected through History is brought before the students in this course.

SCIENCE

The courses of study in this department are designed for the purpose of training in habits of precision, accuracy, observation and logical basis of generalization.

THEOLOGICAL DEPARTMENT

J. A. HENDERSON

Professor of Church History

F. B. HOLT, A. B., Dean

Professor of Homiletics and Evangelism

J. P. MANGRUM, A. B.

Professor of Old Testament History and Biblical Interpretation

The purpose of this department is to qualify leaders for the great work of the Christian Ministry. As the Christian Church must have trained men and women who are able to measure up to all the responsibilities which the Ministry of today carries with it, this department can be of invaluable assistance in equipping them for their life work.

By following the prescribed course, the conditions which at present obtain can be more adequately met and the needs of the Church properly FULFILLED.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION

This department will be open to all persons who are seeking to become better prepared to carry on the great work of the Christian Ministry. They must be imbued with the Spirit of Christ and show sufficient evidence of their call of God to the Ministry by their Christian character and vital piety and their sincere devotion to the work for which the Ministry is set apart. Applicants should bring satisfactory recommendations from the Church to which they belong. A diploma will be given those who complete the prescribed course and pass the required examinations.

SIX WEEKS COURSE

A special course has been arranged for pastors and other Christian workers, who find it impossible to attend school for the whole term. This course proved very successful last year. A large number attended and went away with new inspiration and greater love for Christian College. Three of the young men who attended last term were ordained, and one was licensed. Special lectures are given on Evangelism, Homiletics and Religious Education. During the six weeks, special addresses will be given by leading Ministers of the City and State. This course will be of great help to pastors, and all should avail themselves of the opportunity to become more efficient to preach the glad news of human redemption.

Those who are planning to take this course should notify the Dean at once so that special arrangements can be made for them.

All the ministers are expected to attend the daily chapel exercises, and all other religious meetings. The Theological Fraternity meets every Thursday at 6:30 p. m. and lasts one hour. The purpose of this organization is to train the men to be better preachers by practicing what they learn in the class-room.
